EMBODYING as it does all the prismatic hues and tints of the rainbow the Gladiolus in its numberless harmonious combinations, is equally desirable in the garden, the house, the exhibition, or in any scheme of interior decoration in which flowers are used. As delicately beautiful as the orchid and hardier than the dahlia, it imparts a glow of iridescent beauty to its surroundings, adding a note that seems to softly pulsate with its own living luxuriant color.

The Gladiolus is practically a new product of floriculture. Its vogue has hardly commenced; its popularity is constantly increasing and its future is assured. No known flower lends itself so readily to crossbreeding; the multitude of variations already in existence are constantly supplemented by new and fascinating shapes and color combinations; and it is sure to become the standard garden ornament of the immediate future.

Hardy, beautiful, long-lasting when cut, minus the cloying odors of so many well-known flowers, it is an admirable decoration for the sick-room. Ornamental and odorless, brilliant and sturdy, requiring little attention, it is the one horticultural display-flower that can truly be called ideal.

The Gladiolus

Gladiolus! Wondrous color sprays,
Gorgeous as the clouds in sunset's rays;
Endowed with charming form and dainty grace.
Spires of beauty towering into space;
Floreate clusters; guarding swords of green—
Crown you Nature's wonder and proclaim you Queen.
Stanley Thorpe.

HAVING devoted years to the study of the gladiolus and being ever on the alert to obtain varieties of special merit and superiority, I am offering this season a list from which it would be almost impossible to select a variety that would not please its owner. And I have many new and fascinating shapes and colors to be catalogued as soon as sufficient quantity can be grown.

At "Stanthorp" we grow not for flowers but to produce good bulbs for our patrons. Every care is taken to this end and our customers are strong in their praise of bulbs purchased from "Stanthorp."

The Name

GLADIOLUS may be pronounced "gla-di'-o-lus" or "glad-i-o'-lus." The Century Dictionary and the Standard Dictionary show the pronunciation "gla-di'-o-lus," although the Standard shows "gla-di'-o-lus" as the generic name and the word "glad-i-o'-lus" spelled exactly the same, as a specific name, defining it as "a plant of the genus gla-di'-o-lus; the corn-flag." Webster's International pronounces the word "gla-di'-o-lus or glad-i-o'-lus." The preferred pronunciation, "gla-di'-o-lus," is explained and justified by the statement, "The penultimate 'o' in this word is short and the accent, therefore, as Latin, properly falls upon the antepenult, 'gla-di'-o-lus,' as indicated by most orthoepists. 'Glad-i-o'-lus' is, however, common in popular or colloquial usage."

If the "Roman" method is used, the "o" is short and you have "gla-di'-o-lus"; if the "English" method is used you have "glad-i-o'-lus."

THE FLOWER OF THE PEOPLE

There is no need for me to eulogize or praise the Gladiolus; it speaks for itself. To see it excites admiration; to grow it excites enthusiasm. To know it and grow it is to love it. No other flower is making such wonderful advancement in worth and beauty and no other such tremendous increase in popularity. The "Glorious Gladiolus" is the flower of the people.

—President C. R. Hinkle of the A. G. A.

Metzner Varieties

MARIETTA

This beautiful gladiolus of a delicate shade of light salmon with pale orange tinge, lower petals frequently shading to a clear deep burnt orange is another Metzner creation winning praise wherever shown. Large size flowers five to six inches in diameter, well placed on a straight spike.

Each $2.00.

ROSE ASH

A grand novelty named Rose Ash by reason of its distinctive combination of old rose tones and ashes of roses. In color, general formation of petals and growing habit it is entirely different from existing types. The rich and rare pastel colorings blend harmoniously with almost every color combination.. Strong, straight, tall spikes tower like so many church steeples and growing in a fashion all its own it immediately attracts attention. The more you see of it, whether growing in the garden or displayed as a cut flower, the more its grandeur grows upon you. No collection of select gladioli should be without it.

Each 50c; Doz. $5.00.

STANFORD

Pure dark cardinal splashed with black and covered with a velvety sheen that glistens like the sparkling dew, added to its great size—six inches in diameter, was named, by reason of its admiration by one of the faculty, in honor of California's university Stanford and its founder Leland Stanford.

Each $5.00.

Orders cannot be delivered this season.

NELLIE GRANT

A dark nelrose or American beauty crimson, shading lighter to throat, central stripe of garnet on lower petals; very rich color tones and velvety; short, round form of petals; large open flowers and tall spike; admired wherever shown.

Each $1.00; Doz. $10.00.

(Four)

ALBANIA—(Kemp)

First prize, Boston, 1921; New York, 1921-22

This is the most pleasing white variety we have yet seen. The color is of the purest glistening white, the flower wide open, four inches and over in diameter; petals are broad, with well-rounded tips, and the finely ruffled edges of the petals give to the individual flower an artistic finish such as is seldom seen in the Gladiolus. The flowers are correctly placed on the spike, and set just close enough together to close up the intervening spaces, making an ideal and the best white for floral designs ever originated. Five flowers open at a time, and a splendid keeper when cut. Height, four feet; 15 to 17 flowers to the spike; very healthy, vigorous grower, and a very bountiful producer of good sound bulblets that grow. We consider this flower superior to Europa because it does not need special culture to produce a handsome spike. Each 30c, Doz. $3.00

Especial care is taken that customers receive varieties true to name and should an occasional error occur we are ready and anxious to correct the same.

LUPINES

NEW GRAND PERENNIALS

There are few more striking hardy herbaceous flowers which come in season in early June than the hardy lupines. Until quite recent years only blue and white varieties of L. polyphyllus were available, but the introduction of innumerable varieties and beautiful shades has given a great popularity to them. Few other plants flower so early from seeds as the lupines, and all are splendid for cutting. Height 3 to 4 feet. Spikes of bloom up to 34 inches in length. No garden should be without these majestic and stately flowers. If sown early in the Spring will flower same year. Give each plant ample room (1 foot) to develop to their full size and beauty.

Trial package 25c.

(Fourteen)

CULTURE

The culture of the Gladiolus is so simple as to render it the most satisfactory of garden flowers, thriving and blooming freely with the least care and attention. Do not plant in shade of trees or buildings and do not allow fresh manure to come in direct contact with bulbs. Use well-rotted manure, commercial fertilizer wood ashes, sheep manure or bone meal, well mixed with the soil. Set the bulbs four or five inches deep in rows about four to five inches between each bulb.

Keep the soil well cultivated and free from weeds. Cultivate often; do not allow the soil to become hard and packed. A liberal use of water, when the spikes form, will increase the size and improve the quality of the bloom.

When cutting flower spike let three to four leaves remain on the plant and allow the bulb to mature properly. Dig the bulbs any time after October 1st; cut off tops, and after drying in the open air for a few days store away in a dry, cool, but frost-proof place in the cellar. Keep temperature between 40 to 45 degrees.

The satisfaction derived from growing something better than is seen in the average garden more than compensates for a slight increase in cost.
